

Kiron Open Higher Education (gGmbH) is a non-profit organization founded in 2015 with the mission to enable access to higher education and successful learning for refugees through digital solutions. As part of an innovative educational model Kiron offers coherent curricula using MOOCs (Massive Open Online Courses) from partner platforms like Coursera and edX so that refugees can start studying regardless of their status. Courses are mostly provided in English, completely free of charge for the students and all accessible via our learning platform Kiron Campus.

To support the learning outcomes of its students, Kiron also offers a Direct Academics programme which mainly consists of synchronous teaching & learning formats such as small-group online tutorials. Tutorials accompany a specific MOOC or module, fulfill a specific learning objective in their study track, or foster key skills such as academic writing. The Direct Academics programme is entirely supported by volunteer instructors who are professionals or experts in their field and wish to supply and/or gain more experience in online education and refugee issues.

Business and Economics Tutorial Instructors

Start: Winter/Spring 2017 - Office: Completely Online

Support the higher education of refugees around the world while gaining experience in interactive online education!

Current subjects in need of instructors:

- Management Information Systems
- Financial and Management Accounting
- Statistics
- Microeconomics/ Macroeconomics

Your commitment:

- 4-5 hr/week commitment including live tutorial, preparation, email support for students
- Conduct weekly live, online tutorials for 10-15 refugee students in English to clarify questions, go through corresponding MOOC content, and do exercises
- Help develop long-term teaching plans for the tutorial in close collaboration with the Head of Kiron's Business and Economics Department

Your qualifications and skills:

- Minimum Bachelor's degree in business related field (e.g. Business Administration, Economics, Business Education), Master's degree or PhD preferred
- Some teaching experience preferred, e.g. as a student tutor or a lecturer
- Minimum C1 English skills, German and/or Arabic are an asset
- Familiarity with MOOCs, Google Classroom, and Google Hangouts is helpful (but we are here to support you!)

What we offer:

- Experience teaching online and possible opportunity to participate in related workshops
- A volunteer certificate from Kiron at the conclusion of your tutorial
- The chance to shape an innovative and fast-growing social startup and make an impact in the lives of refugees in Germany, Europe and worldwide

Interested in volunteering as a tutorial instructor?

Send your CV and a short paragraph highlighting your motivations with the subject "BE + your name". Please also feel free to forward this announcement to your networks.

Visit us at www.kiron.ngo.

Manuela Verduci
Direct Academics Specialist
Kiron Open Higher Education
Palais am Festungsgraben
Am Festungsgraben 1
10117 Berlin

manuela.verduci@kiron.ngo