

Information sheet to apply for thesis conduction grant at a university outside Europe under the DAAD PROMOS programme at BTU Cottbus – Senftenberg

Exchange period 2024

In the context of the Bologna Reforms, increasing the mobility of students is one of the main demands of all stakeholders in the field of higher education. The mobility programme PROMOS, aims to provide important partial scholarships for short-term stays abroad, and enable a considerable increase in the mobility of German students.

WHAT IS FUNDED?

The scholarship supports theses (bachelor and master level) at universities in countries outside Europe. Students of all study areas are encouraged to work on challenging subjects, even when this entails additional associated costs throughout the research period, costly experiments, etc.

The duration of a scholarship may vary between two to four months. The amount of the partial scholarships depends on the country of destination and is calculated according to the rates of the DAAD.
