

The Faculty of Social Work, Health and Music of Brandenburg University of Technology Cottbus-Senftenberg (BTU) invites applicants for a

PROFESSORSHIP MUSIC PEDAGOGY (75 %) (W2)

with an application-oriented focus, commencing at the earliest opportunity.

The professorship will be part of the Department of Instrumental and Vocal Pedagogy. The applicant is expected to share the artistic-practical approach of the subject and to develop educational-didactic methods for diverse target groups.

Expertise in recent developments in the field of music pedagogy as well as the application of creative and experience-based methods of teaching and learning are assumed. Interconnecting the recent scientific investigations in the fields of today's requirements in popular and classical teaching approaches would be preferable. Commitment to working together with the regional music schools is expected.

Requirements are a completed artistic-pedagogic university education, a relevant PhD and expertise in instrumental didactics.

The application-oriented focus includes 13 compulsory teaching unit hours. The contract will be an open-ended employment contract.
